SWEET TOOTH—TEMPTING time comes this month as more sugar is used for the makings of candy, cookies, and Christmas cakes and pies. If you're an average American you use about 100 pounds of sugar in various forms during the year at a cost of about five cents of each dollar spent for food.

A CAUTION against using too much sugar comes from nutritionists who say that more than four tablespoons of sugar a day may lead to "flirting with diabetes." If there are diabetic tendencies in your family (perhaps aggravated by poor food habits), then keep a record of the sugar you use for a few days. Any one eating more than a safe four tablespoons of sugar a day? If your breakfast coffee cup gets two rounded spoons of sugar, you can probably count this as at least one of your four level tablespoons for the day's allotment. You may even be "rounding" them a little more. A piece of cake that cuts 16 servings (the cake made using one cup of sugar and two in the frosting) gives three more tablespoons of sugar.

SUGAR IS CALORIC—pure white sugar furnishes only calories, quick energy easily utilized under normal healthy conditions. Two tablespoons of sugar yield about 100 calories.

BROWN SUGAR, less refined than white, contains small amounts of minerals in addition to caloric content.

SUGAR IS SUGAR, as far as granulated variety is concerned. Homemakers who prefer cane sugar to beet or vice versa, gain only if their favorite type is lower in price. Beet and cane sugar have the same chemical formula, purity, sweetness, and appearance. Both can be used interchangeably with equal results in any kind of cooking home canning, freezing, candy or jelly-making.

Keeping sugar may not be a problem at your house if the family is large, the storage space small, and the use frequent. Sugar storage in the home requires only a dirt-free container in a dry place. Brown sugar is different, requires moisture for good keeping, more than it will normally absorb from the air. It may be kept in a not too tightly covered jar or can with a piece of fresh bread or slice of apple added each week. If there is space in your bread box, the box of sugar may enjoy better keeping in company with your loaf of bread. Should brown sugar harden, it may become usable again by placing in a slightly warmed container in company with your loaf of the storage container a damp cloth until enough moisture is absorbed to soften the sugar.

Our church attendance at the High View Baptist Church, Sunday was very slim due to the bad weather. Bro. Joe Lackey was a welcome visitor Sunday evening. He is pastor of a church in Owen County and also a student at the Southern Baptist Seminary.

We were greatly blessed by attending Thanksgiving Day service. We had a wonderful service with a solo by Bro. Sterling Hornbuckle, the ladies trio—Mrs. J. N. Causey, Mrs. Ed Gardner, Mrs. Nancy L. Davidson, and Mrs. Allen Reed sang a special and Bro. Bob Causey, of Mississippi, gave the devotional. Those who missed this service had a great blessing. Our prayers are for all our sick and convalescing. We hope the Lord sees fit to restore them to good health quickly.

FEEDER'S NOTEBOOK

By Emmett Milchen
Graduate Feeding Advisor

BIG WINTER PROFITS

Laying house management must be especially good during late fall and winter if poultrymen are to realize satisfactory profits.

Good poultrymen know that hens must be "coaxed" to lay so for every seven layers they provide one comfortable nest. Plenty of nest help may be cleaner eggs and fewer lost by chocking or breaking.

Unless birds sleep in comfort, performance will suffer. Ample roosts, that can be easily reached, should be provided. Lights should be used to allow for fourteen hours of work and ten hours of sleep. Smart poultrymen arrange lights to encourage eating to avoid shadings that may encourage floor layering or vent picking.

Keep a good laying ration in the feed hoppers at all times. A few pounds of pellets on top of the mash at noon and again at night will pop up slow appetites. There should be ample water space and in cold weather birds will drink more warm water than cold—consequently they will lay better. The floor around fountains should be dry.

Ventilation must be adequate, especially in cold weather. In good housing, birds are arranged to allow ample light and to carry out moisture-laden air. Window sash hinged at the bottom to tilt in from the top are popular. When litter tends to become damp, poor ventilation or growing is indicated.

Even though a poultryman has housed good pullets capable of high production, he will not reap "big winter profits" unless he uses good management, sanitation and feeding practices.

Banner Year Reported In County Soil, Water Conservation Program

With the year's end still weeks away, 1952 has already rung the bell as a banner year in soil conservation in Jefferson County, Roy L. Roman, work unit conservator, reported Friday.

As of November 30, a total of 146 conservation operations representing 9,920 acres, in addition to the soil conservation district program during the year as compared with 84 farmers with 7,842 acres in 1951.

By December 31, at the present rate, Roman estimated that 152 farmers, representing 10,460 acres, will have started conservation farming in the district program at all time high. In addition, the Soil Conservation Service has assisted many PMA participants in planning and applying permanent type soil conservation practices on their land.

One of the factors in the increased number of district co-operators has been the new system of progressive planning set up in the Jefferson County Soil Conservation District with the approval of the board of supervisors of which M. C. Brooks is chairman.

This new system enables a farmer to start the initial phase of a soil conservation district program immediately with one of two practices and go on from there to the advance stage. Finally the basic stage of farm planning in which a soil and water conservation program is developed for his entire farm based on the capabilities of his land.

Another factor which has had its effect in speeding up conservation work on the land is the co-operation between the agriculture agencies serving Jefferson County, particularly the Production and Marketing Administration, Extension Service and Vocational Agriculture, and veteran instructors, Roman said.

St. Joseph (Buddy) Rothman is at home from active duty in the front in Korea. He left Japan by plane, made a brief stop at a small island for refueling, a stop in Anchorage, Alaska, then to Vancouver, Canada, changed planes to come to Chicago, Ill., another change to a plane that brought him to Louisville. He was on the Louisville train Jan. 2, but will be stationed in the states. He looks fine, but said on several occasions he wondered if he would live through the battle, and get home.

Ellis Stallings is in a Louisville hospital. We were not able to learn the nature of his illness. Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Gentry and their two sons, Billy Roy and Glendon, were after church guests, Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Proctor.

Lyman Hall has a flock of 400 hens, about half of them are laying.

Ralph Scrogam and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verner Scrogam, visited Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Scrogam, cousins, in Louisville, Sunday.

Sgt. Buddy Rothman has purchased a new red and tan two-door Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Shaw and son, Tommy, Shepherdsville, were supper guests Sunday night in the Fisher home. It was a surprise for Mrs. Shaw's birthday.

Lyman Hall sent a nice flock of sheep to the Louisville market by the Harley Proctor truck. Messrs. and Mesdames Russell Stallings, Waldo Gentry, Harley Proctor, Misses Ella Proctor, Ella Mae, Eva Layne, and Elinor Stallings, Messrs. Norman Stallings, Don Hill Proctor, Billy Roy and Glendon Gentry, were recent after Sunday school dinner guests at Mr. and Mrs. Paul Owen Okolona.

Robert Decker from New Jersey, and Stuart Bedell from Michigan, both students at Asbury college, came home with their teacher, Rev. C. H. Skelton, Friday night, spent the week-end returning to Asbury Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis King, Camp Campbell, spent part of the Thanksgiving holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Owens.

Yes, we have passed another mile stone, and truly it was a swell birthday. We received number of cards, several nice gifts, and a birthday dinner that we did not cook. Sunday morning the two boys from Asbury went to Sunday School with us. Son insisted that we stay at church, which we were glad to do. When we arrived home, dinner was ready. Son had baked a chocolate cake, a lemon-cocoanut pie, fried chicken, and with some three or four vegetables and hot rolls we enjoyed a delicious noon meal, but never realized it was our birthday until started singing "happy birthday" to us.

Briscoe Lane News

By Mrs. Charles Gentry

(Delayed)

The youth revival closed Sunday evening at the High View Church of Christ. It was a grand and glorious week for all of us. Two came forward and acknowledged the Christ as their Savior, Brother J. L. Adams brought the message in such a way that even the little children could understand. With picture slides and chalk talk and songs it was all so wonderful I know every one who heard was helped.

Mr. Joe Hearing, who recently moved into our neighborhood on Smyrna Road, fell and broke his back. He still remains at St. Anthony's Hospital, where he underwent a serious operation and her mother in the same hospital due to a broken hip. We can't understand why these things happen but all we can do is to put our trust in the Lord and he will carry us through.

Mrs. Byron Reader had her tonsils removed at the Kentucky Baptist Hospital. Miss Mary Cox was also there. Both are at home now doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reader and family were after church guests, Sunday, of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Reader. In the afternoon all took a drive to Shelbyville to visit the newlows, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Reader and Glenn spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her mother, Mrs. Ida Grinstead at Smith Grove.

Mr. T. J. Timmins was home to visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cass L. Timmins, Thanksgiving Day.

"That Call"

What a grand surprise! I wasn't expecting you so soon. When you phoned from the station and said you were back, I could hardly believe it. And now you're really here. It's wonderful!

Good news travels fast... especially by telephone. The usefulness of telephone service can be beyond price in moments of happiness as in moments of anxiety. When such moments come, you are thankful for the quick reassurance a telephone call can bring.

Day in and day out, your telephone proves its value in so many ways.

Today there are more than twice as many other telephones to call as there were 10 years ago. Yet the price of telephone service has gone up less than most prices.

We noticed in last week's lesson that when Jesus comes again, two things are to occur: the living will be changed and the dead will be raised.
We note also that the judgment of the wicked will be at the last day. John 12:48: "He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word which I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day." (1) The resurrection of the righteous will be at the last day. (2) The judgment of the wicked will be at the last day. (3) Therefore, the resurrection of the righteous and the judgment of the wicked will be at the same time; and that at the "last day."
The judgment of the righteous and the judgment of the wicked will be at the same time. Matt. 25:31-32: "When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory. And before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats."
The idea that at Christ's coming, He will establish His
